

WHITEHEAD IS FLOOR LEADER

Janesville Man Leads The Davidson-Connor Faction In Fight For Control.

TEST VOTE IS VERY CLOSE INDEED

Gathering At Madison Today Is Watched With Intense Interest By Politicians Here And Elsewhere In Country.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Sept. 25.—Four political state conventions were held in Madison today. Three went off smoothly and according to the program arranged, being those of the democratic, prohibition and socialist parties, but at the republican meeting there was a fierce struggle, the La Follette forces on the defensive making a strong fight against the Davidson-Connor crowd to prevent the complete humiliation of the junior senator.

Connor's Candidacy
W. D. Connor of Marshfield was a candidate for reelection as chairman of the state central committee, a position to which he was raised two years ago by his political discovery, La Follette. The other side had W. H. Dick of New London as a candidate and made a strenuous effort to round up votes enough to elect him.

Had Caucus
This morning the rival camps caused finally before going into the convention at noon. Sixty-one delegates out of the total 124 attended the Davidson-Connor meeting, and Private Secretary Munson said that 19 Davidson pledges were not present. He said 80 voters were "Assured for the administration program, removing all doubt of the election of Connor as chairman and the adoption of a platform as planned by Gov. Davidson."

Few Disputed Claim
None but close La Follette workers disputed this claim. Col. G. Hannan, private secretary to Senator La Follette, said the vote would be closer than was expected because some of the delegates were frequenting both camps, and they won't stand for any slaps at La Follette.

Convention Called
Chairman Connor called the convention to order at noon and Senator George B. Huddell of Superior was elected as presiding officer and Assemblyman E. W. Leroy of Marinette as secretary.

Clough States What He Wants And Will Accept
OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF FRANCHISE PETITIONER MADE PUBLIC.
GAVE IT OVER TELEPHONE
Was at the Union League Club in Chicago when he made the following statement.

H. H. Clough, who seeks the franchise to build an interurban road from Janesville to Madison in Chicago today. He was found this noon at the Union League Club and in a telephone conversation had the following to say regarding the situation as far as he is himself concerned, and the company he represents. That Mr. Clough means business is evidenced by the decided manner in which he spoke. He said:

"For the purpose of enabling the common council to come to a speedy decision regarding the application of the Janesville & Madison Railway company for a franchise permit me to say that we will accept no modification of the freight or paving clauses other than those indicated by me and the counsel for the company at the meeting of the other day."

"As to the matter of an additional track on Franklin street, if an arrangement cannot be made with the Rockford, Beloit & Janesville Railway company to use a portion of its tracks, we are willing to waive the privilege of going up Franklin street."

"It seems to me, as a business man, that the way to dispose of this matter is for the council to meet and come to some decision regarding the freight and paving clauses. If the council does not see fit to grant those we have asked our company will have no further interest in Janesville. If the common council does agree to give us these privileges, then the attorneys for the city and the attorney for the company shall meet and agree on details. It is a very simple matter. By proceeding in this way, no time will be wasted."

"I understand the highway committee has authorized an attorney to draw a proposed franchise embodying its ideas. This is a needless expense of time and money. If the city of Janesville does not want to grant us the franchise that we have asked for, with the modifications indicated, there should be no further dalliance. We will accept no other franchise. Further, such franchise as we do accept will be drawn by our own attorney, after consultation with the proper authorities of the city."

First Test
The first test of the strength came on the adoption of rules. The Connor people won by a vote of 67 to 59. Senator John M. Whitehead was the floor leader of the Davidson-Connor people and A. S. Dahl and H. L. Elken led the La Follette side.

Very Close
So close is the line-up that the election of a state chairman is now in some doubt, but Connor leads Dick. Senator Munson moved to proceed to elect the chairman and a storm of protests went up from the La Follette members, as the law suggests that this proceeding be the last thing of the convention.

Huddell Rules
Chairman Huddell held on a point of order that the convention could do as it chooses about the order of business, but Senator Munson, for harmony's sake, withdrew his motion.

Fear's Motion
Senator Fear moved that the chair appoint a platform committee and Senator Sanborn and others on the La Follette side denounced this as an attempt at gang rule and their amendment to choose a platform committee by congressional districts prevailed by a vote of 68 to 59, which scored the Connor people somewhat and as a result was taken for lunch.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 25.—This was the second and one of the biggest days of the Pike centennial celebration. The island is situated in the Bristol channel, and is about three miles long and has an average width of about half a mile. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] West Bend, Sept. 25.—During Sheriff Held's absence from the building three prisoners escaped from the county jail. They made a wooden key out of a leg of a chair, unlocked the doors and walked out. Where they got the tools to make the key is a mystery. The wooden key in the door explained the method of leaving.

VERY SMALL CHANCE TO VOTE ILLEGALLY

Electors in Massachusetts Must Now Answer Hight Description if Challenged.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Boston, Mass., Sept. 25.—The man who undertook to vote on somebody else's name at the primaries in this city today had to run more of a "gauntlet" than heretofore, for in addition to having the name called out by the precinct officer when he asked for a ballot, the precinct officer also announced the height of the man whose name had been called. Then the police officer on duty at the polling booth looked over his descriptive list of voters to see if the man who had called for a ballot answered the description against that name; on the crowd is now one of the largest ever entertained in Colorado Springs.

Jerome's Name Withdrawn And Gaynor Or Adams Will Be Choice Of Antis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Lewis Nixon was selected temporary chairman of the democratic convention, which is regarded as a point gained by Hearst. District Attorney Jerome's nomination for governor was practically withdrawn today at the adjournment meeting of the so-called Albany conference of anti-Hearst democrats. Representatives from about twenty-five counties attended and it was decided by the delegates opposed to the nomination of Hearst that they should concentrate on either Judge Gaynor or Mayor Adams as the expediency may require.

NEW JERSEY REPUBLICANS FIGHTING AT PRIMARIES

Conditions That La Follette Has Been Attempting To Alter Similar To Those In The Badger State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Trenton, N. J., Sept. 25.—The political contest that is being fought out in the state primaries today has stirred New Jersey from Cape May to the New York state line. The contest is one of the most interesting and exciting that this state has seen in years. The republican party is divided into two hostile factions, very much as the party is divided in Wisconsin. The "stalwarts" in New Jersey this year are called "regulars" and the "half breeds" are known as "Colbyites," "reformers" or "new idea" men.

The "regular" or organization republican leaders comprise pretty much all the office-holders—Governor Stokes and other state house officials, United States Senators Kean and Dryden, and all the representatives in congress from this state. It is sustained by every member of the state committee and by efficient organizations in every county. In short, it is a powerful and well constructed machine, in good working order.

The reformers, as the other faction are pleased to call themselves, are led by three men who have for the past two or three years been conspicuous figures in New Jersey politics. They are Everett Colby, senator from Essex county, Mayor Pagan of Jersey City, and George L. Record, corporation counsel of Jersey City. There are two principal planks in the reform platform. There are equal taxation and limited franchises. The reformers claim that the railroads are paying a ridiculously unequal share of the taxes. The reformers declare that the republican organization has for so many years been the road political ally of the Pennsylvania Railroad company that it does not dare compel the big corporation to come forward and assume its just share of the tax burden.

The two factions fight it out at the primaries today. The reformers have put George L. Record forward as their candidate for United States senator, while the regulars are generally for John F. Dryden, who has served part of one term in the senate and desires reelection. The reform faction have also nominated candidates for the legislature and for congress in some counties.

What both factions seem to fear is that neither will honestly abide by the result of the primaries, but will secretly knife the ticket that wins in the primaries at the coming election.

Though the republicans carried the state on the assembly ticket last year by 57.98 plurality, it is believed to be within the possibilities that the democrats may capture the legislature this year and elect their senator. Former President Grover Cleveland has been talked of as a possible candidate for the senate, but those best familiar with the situation believe it would be impossible to persuade him to become a candidate. Former Senator James Smith, Jr., though the fact that he bolted the Bryan presidential tickets may militate against his chances, is still believed to be the most prominent among those mentioned as the democratic candidate for the senate.

THREE NATIONS
TOBACCO TRADE

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

GREAT BRITAIN'S IMPORTS

Brazil's Exports—Figures Compiled and Received by Department of Commerce and Labor.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—According to statistics given out by the Department of Commerce and Labor, the United States imported 1,355,983 pounds of leaf tobacco valued at $347,- 090 and 61,553 pounds of cigars, cigarettes and cheroots valued at $310,- 800 from Cuba in July of the present year, as compared with 1,205,803 pounds of leaf valued at $674,480 and 71,446 pounds of cigars, cigar-ettes and cheroots, valued at $334,339 imported in July, 1929.

During the month of July just passed the United States exported $3,775 worth of manufactured tobacco to Cuba, as compared with $9,963 worth in the same month of last year.
 Our imports of cigars, cigar-ettes, leaf and stems and trimmings from Porto Rico in July, 1930, were valued at $365,600, of which cigars formed the greater part, being valued at $323,- 179, as compared with $282,048 worth in July, 1929, of which cigars were valued at $214,293.

During July, 1930, the United States exported $4,037 pounds of leaf tobacco valued at $37,202 to Porto Rico, as compared with 57,352 pounds valued at $26,873 in July, 1929. During July, 1930, we exported $1,235 worth of cigars, cigar-ettes and other manufactured tobacco, to Porto Rico, as compared with $1,058 worth in July, 1929.

During July, 1930, we imported 70,- 067 pounds of leaf tobacco, valued at $4,564 from the Philippines and $382 cigar-ettes valued at $224 in July, 1929.

 The Philippines received $2,894 worth of manufactured tobacco, consisting mainly of plug tobacco, from the United States in July, 1930. In the same month of 1929 these shipments to the Philippines were valued at $1,319.

There were no imports of tobacco from Hawaii in July, 1930. The imports in July, 1929, from Hawaii amounted to $90 worth of cigars and $425 worth of all other manufactured tobacco.

During July, 1930, the United States exported $32,663 worth of cigars, cigar-ettes, plug and other manufactured tobacco, as compared with $33,635 worth in July, 1929. In both instances the exports of "other" manufactured tobacco were in excess of the exports of cigars, cigar-ettes and plug, the latter three following in the order named.

A total of $775 worth of cigars and $24 worth of plug tobacco was imported from Alaska in July, 1930, as compared with $168 worth of cigars and

 July, 1929, these shipments to Alaska were valued at $69,656, a decrease from July, 1930, when they were valued at $39,302.

 ment of Agriculture gives the value

FACTORIES SHOW A DECIDED INCREASE

Prosperity Appears to Have Hit Local Concerns—With a Vengeance—Just Now.

Business in Janesville is very good for this time of year according to the expressions of opinion by the heads and superintendents of the various factories. This particular season of the year is rather betwixt and between the rush of business but all report that business is unusually good. Geo.
 J. Hans, secretary of the Marzulli Shoe company said that their business had increased considerably in the past year. Ordinarily this time of year is between seasons for our business. We have filled our winter orders and those for spring have not yet begun to come in but our men on the road are not only taking spring orders but they are also taking immediate orders which is unusual for this time of year.

This is a pretty clear indication of a considerable increase in our business.
 We are running with as large a force now as we have had at any time during the year which is something unusual in our business. The New Day Manufacturing company is running full time and with a full force.
 The season has been satisfactory and they have not been compelled to reduce their force any. The Milwaukee Elevator company is receiving a large amount of barley this week but it is of rather poor quality taken as a whole. The grain will be coming in fast from now until late in the fall, as the farmers are beginning to sell rather than hold for higher prices.

T. O. Howe of the Rock River Cotton company says that this is the busy season for their business and they are accordingly running full time and with a full force. Business is very good even for this particular season. All the traveling men are out on the road and orders are coming in continually. The Budget Milling company is running night and day to keep up with the grain coming in.

They have been receiving about three carloads of eye a day which is about all the mill can handle. The best wheat will begin to come next week and the mill will have to be run to its full capacity in order to keep up with the grain coming in. Albert Schaller of the Janesville Fish and Door Company says that business is very good with them. This is our busy season but we are doing an unusually good business for even this time of year.

We have been running over time right along but the men are tired out now and we will have to stop this. Orders are coming in faster than we can take care of them and everything is running full force.

STREET LINE NEAR
THE FRONT PORCHES

Council Ordered Four Rod Thoroughfare—Formerly Width Was Thought to be Three Rods.

Oakland avenue residents are up in arms for their lawns and the general appearance of their property is at stake as the result of an order of the council. At a recent session that body ordered that the street be graded a width of four rods. Yesterday the city engineer and his assistants placed the stakes for the work and some of these were far into front lawns and near porches, the property owners having built on the supposition that the street would be graded at a width of three rods. The graders are ready to commence work immediately but no doubt operation will be suspended until some agreement can be reached. This will probably be effected before evening.

Qualities Of
The Best Food

Malta-Vita is Wholesome, Delicious, Pure and Clean.

In all the recent discussions about food and food products, we have heard only the most favorable comment on Malta-Vita—the delicious malted whole-wheat food. Everywhere people are eating Malta-Vita and declaring that nothing could take its place, especially for breakfast.

Any one who has ever eaten Malta-Vita knows how good it is. Anyone who has eaten it for any length of time knows how healthful it is. Persons who have seen it made know it is pure and clean. These three distinctive qualities make it the most popular food on the market.

Malta-Vita, best whole white wheat, mixed with pure barley malt extract, thoroughly steamed and cooked and every flake baked to a crisp, is rich in nutrition and is assimilated readily even by the weakest stomach. Every one of its health-giving, strength-building elements is taken up by the blood to nourish and sustain life. No wonder that Malta-Vita is called "The Perfect Food," and that physicians recommend it for the sick and the well, the weak and the strong.

And Malta-Vita is so good to eat—not at all like the tasteless variety of food—made. A perfect breakfast is impossible without it and it's just as good three times a day. Eat it with milk, cream or fruit. You never tasted anything so good.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat.
 No cooking. All grocers, 10 cents.

Orme Caldara has proven himself to be a finely finished young star by his clever work as John Astor, the engineer in "The Love Route," now playing at the Garrick Theatre, Chicago, and he has no difficulty in pleasing his audiences, especially the ladies, by his charming stage presence, and well-conceived idea of his latest offer-

SCENE FROM "THE LION AND THE MOUSE," HERE THIS EVENING

As for the play itself, it has been received with unanimous praise, and voted by all to be a strong, well written play splendidly acted. The company may be fairly styled as a star cast, for Odette Tyler will be remembered for her excellent work in "The Heart of Maryland" and Olive May in "Arizona." Wm. Northrup and James Marlowe are received by the audience with hearty approval for their part in this truly exciting and interesting melodrama. "The Love Route" will be presented at the Myers Grand Thursday, Sept. 27.

Charles G. Klein's play "The Lion and the Mouse," which Henry B. Harris will produce here at the Myers Grand tonight, contains elements of vital interest to all classes of people. WHAT IT MEANS TO JANESVILLE

The granting of the franchise and building of the interurban line to Madison means vastly more than appears at first glance, and while advantages which lie on the surface are apparent to everyone who cares for the best interests of the city, other benefits of much greater significance are sure to follow.

The statement may seem visionary, but it is nevertheless true, that with proper encouragement and without the investment of a dollar Janesville will become an interurban center in less than five years.

There is in process of construction today a line from Milwaukee to Elkhorn and Delavan taking in Delavan and Geneva lake. Another line is building from Milwaukee to Jefferson by way of Oconomowoc and Watertown.

When these lines are completed and the Madison line is in operation the plan is to extend the latter line from Milton to Jefferson and also to run a line from Janesville by the way of Johnson to Delavan. These will be the connecting links of a network of roads that will center in the city. Can you think of anything that would be more helpful and all that is asked is simply cooperation.

But someone is skeptical and says,

"That can never be done." Suppose you analyze conditions and give the prospect the benefit of the doubt.

Interurban lines, like independent telephone companies, are not only on the most friendly terms, but they work in harmony for mutual benefits.

The Janesville, Beloit and Rockford line recently passed into the hands of a syndicate which controls the lines running between Chicago and Rockford and between Rockford and Freeport, as well as lines running south from the Garden City.

This same syndicate is now operating in Wisconsin and is back of the Milwaukee lines mentioned as well as the Madison and Janesville line. It is a bonding syndicate with ample means, backed by practical men like McAllister of Chicago, who built the "Alloy L" and the "Loop." They are investing in a great interurban system and when completed it will be one of the best in the land.

Janesville is favored by being on the map in the right position to make the city the natural center for these lines, and outside industries are now waiting to see what will be done.

The Gazette is not in position to divulge any secrets, but the people may be assured that with the advent of the Madison interurban line will commence an era of growth and prosperity such as is little dreamed of.

The council cannot afford to quibble over little things in the franchise.

They amount to nothing compared to the great advantages that will come to the city. This statement expresses popular sentiment.

REV. PERRY ON THE CLOSED SHOP

The city of Milwaukee has been in the throes of a molders' strike for the past four months, as the result of refusal to establish a closed shop as demanded by the Molders' union.

During this time some eighty non-union workmen have lived in barracks deprived of communication with their families and the outside world.

They did not dare to appear on the streets or in their homes, and so for four months they have been prisoners in order that they might earn money for the support of wives and children whom they had promised to shelter and protect.

The general public has known nothing about these conditions, for the Milwaukee papers have evidently been afraid to handle it and so the outrage has gone unnoticed.

The Rev. Enoch Perry is pastor of the Westley Methodist church. Mr. Perry handled the situation without gloves in a sermon last Sunday night.

He said in part:

"Seek the kingdom of God, and you will have an increased wage and there will be no strike. What a blessing that would be to Milwaukee. How much it would mean. For during the past four months men have been kept in barracks, behind pickets and bars, unable to leave for their homes from fear of injury to life and limb.

"Penitentiary in Milwaukee! Imprisoned since May! Wives and children deprived of the presence and comfort of their husbands and fathers! Committed crime? No. The community would have known all about it if any crime had been committed, details would have been dis-handed up at once.

"But they wanted to work to support the wife they had promised to care for and to feed the children. God has given them. And the molders' union said, 'You shall not work, only as we dictate the conditions,' but claiming the right of American citizens: to follow the dictates of their own consciences, they chose to work.

They could not support their families without work. They had no personal grievances against their employers.

The result is that to insure against personal violence, injury and loss of life they have been obliged to stay at the shops and factories, to be housed in barracks, not daring to leave for home at night or on the Sabbath.

"And this in free America! In beautiful Milwaukee! And without a protest from the people, without an alarming or indignant cry from the press. But the people did not know, and do not know, the vast majority of them, of these conditions. Think of it! Eighty men or more, slugged, beaten, pursued as villains, maltreat-ed in the most shameful manner by men in the same condition in life!

"And all because they want to work. Is that American? Is there anything American about this idea that those who have control of the employment, the control of the production, those who have the factories, and those who have the machines, and those who have the capital, which are all necessary to production on a large scale, shall deny to other people than a favored few the opportunity to work for them and in order to make their claims good? And those who assert it shall resort to means unlawful and to every step in their power to accomplish and make it good."

Mr. Perry has behind him the backing of the church which he serves, for Bishop McCabe, who presides at the conference to be held in Janesville this week, recently handled the labor question before an audience of ministers in a New York conference.

He denounced in most vigorous terms the tyranny of organized labor in dealing with nonunion workmen and advised the preachers to take up the question in every Methodist pulpit in the land.

This is the kind of preaching that the world needs. It has to do with one of the hard problems of practical everyday life. It touches the church should be exerted thru the broad plane of common humanity at a point where the influence of the church should be exerted and where much good may be accomplished.

The press of the land is more or less handicapped, but the pulpit of the land is untrammelled and questions of injustice and oppression, whether in the world of finance or labor, should be handled vigorously in the interests of humanity.

Janesville has long been waiting for something to strike the town and wake it up. Why wait any longer?

The thing has come and nothing is demanded in the way of a bonus or stock subscription. Simply unblock the wheels, get out of the way of the cars, and give opportunity a chance.

That ought to be easy.

the story of a woman's rightful fight against a 'corporation' that is simply one man's paw. A railroad corporation can hide itself without any apparent personal responsibility. If it did things as a private individual it would frequently find itself in jail for criminal intimidation. I want Senator La Fol-

"The Love Route" was received with unanimous praise by the Chicago critics.

This is what they said:

The Chronicle says: "From indications 'The Love Route' will prove one of the strongest of the many frontier plays presented during the past four or five seasons."

The Record-Herald said: "The rough humor, the bright sun and the frank men of the plains are at the end of 'The Love Route' and it is a rout worth taking."

The Examiner declared: "It is immense. It is a great big breezy play of the plains of Texas. It is filled with the elements that grip and hold the spectator in a breathless sort of trance, waiting for something explosive and dramatic and ear piercing to happen."

The Post said: "It is a better made and more natural play than 'The Lion and the Mouse."

The News applauds the piece as "A tremendously and well built play." "It is permeated with the spirit of rugged manhood," says the Journal, "and the courage and contrariness of independent womanhood." "It is an honest, direct, well-knit and interesting play."

ALDERMEN STILL HOLD MEETINGS

FREQUENT GATHERINGS IN INTERURBAN MATTERS ARE HELD

NEW FRANCHISE TALKED OF

Should Such be the Fact Fate of the Franchise is Apparently Sealed.

With four aldermen favoring the franchise asked for by Mr. Clough and six opposed to it, the matter of the Madison-Janesville interurban appears to hang fire with odds in favor of its rejection by the council when the final vote is taken. This is the situation in a nut shell. Four aldermen awake to the interests of the city and ninety per cent of the citizens realize the importance of the interurban road to Janesville's future prosperity and are willing to grant Mr. Clough a franchise which means to construction of the road. The others are opposed to the idea and would compromise by drawing up a new franchise with certain restrictions and conditions in that Mr. Clough is sure to refuse. There have been frequent star chamber sessions of the council and attorneys for persons who oppose the road have been diligent in earning their money.

The Opposition.
It is perhaps unjust to say that the opposition is blind to the best interests of the citizens as a whole. The persons who do the most of the talking for this class are paid for their services and are using all the cunning and ingenuity of the law to further the interests of their clients. The article in the morning paper is an example of their work and contains no argument that fits the local case. Just below it was another article that does fit the case. The representative of the directory company that is getting out the new directory makes the statement that Janesville has not grown more than thirty in the past year. This should be an argument in favor of anything that will improve the city and increase both the population and business.

The Plans.
While everything that the council has done at its secret meetings is sub rosa, it is understood that the opposition of the proposed road have decided to present a new franchise with the following changes: First, that the freight clause shall read with reference to package freight only to be handled in regular express cars, that when the time comes for the hauling of sugar beets Mr. Clough apply to the council for permission to do so and that it will be granted. That no steam railway cars can be attached to the interurban cars and hauled through the streets. Another important feature is the compromise that is to be offered as to paying. The council will be generous. They will ask Mr. Clough to take care of his tracks when the city reaches twenty thousand population instead of twenty-five thousand as he requested.

Are Determined.
It is apparent that the six aldermen are determined to stop the passage of any franchise that Mr. Clough will accept. He has told the council what he must have to build the road and has made some concessions and now will be asked to make further.

The establishment of this road would mean much more to Janesville than appears on the surface. The Gazette is not at liberty to disclose the full plans but they are such a scale that were they made public even the most skeptical would be assured of the future prosperity of the city within the next five years. Never has so much interest been exhibited in any matter of civic importance as the franchise question has brought forth and it is safe to say that two-thirds of the tax payers of the city favor a liberal franchise and the road built.

First Beets Were LOADED AT MILTON

This is the Commencement of the Annual Movement—Both Roads to Have Extra Switchengines.

This morning the annual movement of sugar beets, billed for the local factory from growers about the southern part of the state and northern part of Illinois commenced. The loading began at Milton and is the first done this season. This labor will be taken up soon at various other points and it will not be long before long strings of gondolas, bearing the saccharine roots, will be brought to the city daily. This will greatly increase the local freight traffic and both the St. Paul and the Northwestern, railways will put on one extra switchengine to haul beets almost exclusively.

NARROW ESCAPE OF FRANK L. STEVENS

Stepped Down a Cellar Stairway by Mistake and Was Badly Bruised by Fall.

Frank L. Stevens, the well known real-estate man, stepped down the cellar stairway at J. P. Baker's drug store yesterday by mistake and narrowly missed serious injury. He received several bad bruises but broke no bones although the shock to his entire system was something that may be felt more later than immediately. Mr. Stevens was going in to Mr. Baker's stock room and opened the cellar door by mistake falling down the flight of steps to the cellar floor.

COWBOYS FLIRTED WITH GIRLS AT COTTON MILLS

Spent Morning in Boxcar, Feasting on Candy and Other Delicacies.

Two cowboys, said to hail from Idaho, caused all sorts of excitement at the mills of the Rock River Cotton company today. They took it upon themselves to have a spread in an open boxcar near the factory, going there this morning laden with candy, sandwiches and some liquid refreshments, and immediately set in to flirt with and treat the girl employees. They were ordered away, but refused to leave. A call was sent to the police station about half-past two this afternoon and Officer Champion responded. The sky-larkers had vanished by the time the officer arrived on the scene, but will no doubt be located before night. Both were said to have displayed bundles of money.

More Beer; Less Drunkenness

Positive Proof That Beer is a Means to Temperance.

An interesting and practical temperance lesson may be drawn by our readers from the increased consumption of beer in this country and a corresponding decrease in drunkenness. Really sincere temperance workers are learning to differentiate between malt liquors and spirits if we may take some of the public utterances of celebrated public leaders as an example. They urge the substitution of beer for stronger liquors as the real means to temperance and sobriety.

In some of the states where the practical, progressive temperance workers are strongest, they find the people giving consideration to a law that makes the license much less for selling beer than spirits.

This shows the tendency of the times is favorable to beer. The report of the Internal Revenue department shows 160,000,000 more gallons of beer drunk than in any previous year and statistics are quoted showing a decrease in drunkenness in the states that is very satisfactory to those who are not only earnest but practical in their labors for temperate habits in our people.

As a distinct aid to temperance as well as a wholesome, refreshing beverage Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer leads all others. One reason for its great popularity is the fact that doctors recommend it because of its absolute cleanliness, purity, age and strength. It is the most nutritious beer brewed because made from Pabst exclusive eight-day malt which retains its original degree of the "foot" value of the barley. This Pabst exclusive eight-day process makes the "foot" value but it makes Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer the superior of all American beers and accounts for its great popularity.

The next morning Guy Osgood stood on the edge of the plateau.

The next morning he was unable to leave his bed, and lay all day in a state of semi-somnolence. Joseph explained to the men that the leader was so "disgusted" with their ungrateful conduct that he would not leave the tent. In the evening there was a slight attack made from the southern side. This Joseph was able to repulse, chiefly by his own long range firing, assisted by a few picked rifles, but the situation was extremely critical. The roll of the big war drum could be heard almost incessantly, rising with weird melancholy from the forest land beneath them.

Despite difficulties the new crop of simiache, the second within twelve months, had been picked, dried and stored in cases. Without on the plateau stood the bare trees, affording no cover for savage warfare, no screen against the deadly bullet. The camp was placed near one edge of the table land and on this exposed side the stockade was wisely constructed of double strength. The attacks had hitherto been made only from this side, but Joseph knew that anything in the nature of a combined assault would carry his defense before it. In his rough and ready way he doctored his master, making for him such soups and strength giving food as he could. Once, very late in the night, when it almost seemed that the shadow of death lay over the little tent, he pounded up some of the magic simiache leaves and mixed them in the brandy which he administered from time to time.

Before sunrise the next morning the alarm was given again and the little garrison was called to arms.

He took his station on the roof of a hut in the center of the little stockade, and from there he directed the fire of his men. Crouching beneath him he had a disabled native who loaded each rifle in turn, and just by way of encouraging the others he picked off the prominent men outside the stockade with a deadly steadiness.

If Joseph detected anything like cowardice or carelessness, he pointed his rifle with a threatening frown, to warn the culprit with instant effect. Presently, however, things began to get more serious. This was not the sudden assault of a single chief, but an organized attack. Before long Joseph ceased to smile. By sunrise he was on the roof running from one weak point to another, encouraging, threatening, fighting and sweating very hard. More than once the enemy reached the stockade, and, ominous sign, one or two of their dead lay inside the defense.

He was everywhere at once, urging on his men, kicking them, pushing them, flogging them up to the stockade. But he saw the end. Half dazed, the blacks fought on in silence.

In the midst of it a hand was laid on Joseph's shoulder.

"There," cried a voice, "that corner. See to it."

Without looking round, Joseph obeyed, and the breached corner was saved. He only knew that his master, who was almost dead, had come to life again. There was no time for anything else.

For half an hour it was a question of any moment. Master and man were for the time being nothing better than madmen, and the fighting frenzy is wildly infectious.

At last there was a pause. The enemy fell back and in the momentary silence the sound of distant firing reached the ears of the little band of defenders.

"What's that?" asked Meredith sharply. He looked like one risen from the dead.

"Fighting among themselves," replied Joseph, who was wiping blood and grime from his eyes.

"Then one of them is fighting with an oppressor?"

Joseph listened.

"By heaven!" he shouted. "By heaven, Mer—sir, we're saved!"

The enemy had apparently heard the firing too. Perhaps they also recognized the peculiar sharp snarl of the express rifle amid the others. There was a fresh attack—an ugly snarl of reckless men. But the news soon spread that there was firing in the valley and the sound of a white man's rifle. The little garrison picked up heart, and the rifles, almost too hot to hold, dealt death around.

They held back the savages until the sound of the firing behind them was quite audible even amid the heavy rattle of the musketry.

Then suddenly the firing ceased—the enemy had divided and fled. For a few moments there was a strange, tense silence. Then a voice—an English voice—cried "Come on!"

The next moment Guy Osgood stood on the edge of the plateau. He held up both arms as a signal to those within the stockade to cease firing, and then he came forward, followed by a number of blacks and Durnovo.

The gate was rapidly disencumbered of its rough supports and thrown open. Jack Meredith stood in the aperture, holding out his hand.

"It's all right; it's all right," he said. Osgood did not seem to take so cheerful a view of matters. He scrutinized Meredith's face with visible anxiety.

Then suddenly Jack lurched up against his rescuer, grabbing at him vaguely.

In a minute Osgood was supporting him back toward his tent.

"It's all right, you know," explained Jack Meredith very gravely. "I am a bit weak, that is all. I am hungry; haven't had anything to eat for some time, you know."

"Oh, yes," said Osgood shortly, "I know all about it."

CHAPTER XVII.

THREE days after the arrival of the rescuing force at the plateau Guy Osgood had organized a retreating party, commanded by Joseph, to convey Jack Meredith down to the coast. He knew enough of medicine to recognize the fact that this was no passing indisposition, but a thorough breakdown in health. The work and anxiety of the last year, added to the strange disquieting breath of the simiache grove, had brought about a serious collapse in the system which only months of rest and freedom from care could repair.

Before the retreating column was ready to march it was discovered that the hostile tribes had finally evacuated the country, which deliverance was brought about not by Osgood's blood stained track through the forest, not by the desperate defense of the plateau, but by the whisper that Victor Durnovo was with them. Truly a man's reputation is a strange thing!

And this man, the mighty warrior whose name was as good as an army in central Africa, went down on his knees one night to Guy Osgood, imploring him to abandon the simiache plateau, or at all events to allow him to go down to Loango with Meredith and Joseph.

"No," said Osgood. "Meredith held this place for us when he could have left it safely. He has held it for a year. It is our turn now. We will hold it for him. I am going to stay, and you have to stay with me."

For Jack Meredith life was at this time nothing but a constant, never ceasing fatigue. When Osgood helped him into the rough litter they had constructed for his comfort, he laid his head on the pillow, overcome with a dead sleep.

"Goodby, old chap," said Osgood, patting him on the shoulder.

"Gibby" and Jack Meredith turned over on his side as if he were in bed, drew up the blanket and closed his eyes. He did not seem to know where he was, and what was worse, he did not seem to care. Osgood gave the signal to the bearers, and the march began. There is something in the spring of human muscles unlike any other motive power; the power of thought may be felt even on the pole of a litter, and one thing that modern invention can never equal is the comfort of being carried on the human shoulder.

The slow, swinging movement came to be part of Jack Meredith's life—indeed, life itself seemed to be nothing but a huge journey thus peacefully accomplished. Through the flapping curtains an endless procession of trees passed before his half closed eyes. The unintelligible gabble of the light hearted bearers of his litter was all that reached his ears. And over at his side was Joseph, cheerful, indefatigable, resourceful. There was in his mind one of the greatest happinesses of life—the sense of something satisfactorily accomplished—the peacefulness that comes when the necessity for effort is past and left behind that lying down to rest which must surely be something like death in its kindest form.

The awe inspired by Victor Durnovo's name waned before the little caravan like a moral convoy and cleared their path. Thus, guided by the name of a man whom he hated, Jack Meredith was enabled to pass through a savage country literally cast upon a bed of sickness.

In due course the river was reached and the gentle swing of the litter was changed for the smoother motion of the canoe. And it was at this period of the journey, in the forced restfulness of body entitled, that Joseph's mind soared to higher things and he determined to write a letter to St. John.

He was, he admitted to himself, no great penman, and his epistolary style tended, perhaps, more to the forcible than to the polished.

I used liniments and, and finally, seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our papers, I sent to the People's Drug Co., and got a box and began using them. A few doses were sufficient to rid me of the pain and I continued taking the remedy until entirely cured. My son found the same satisfaction in using them for bladder trouble as he has been entirely free from it since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

Twenty Minutes Time Enough?

To Cure the Worst Headache From Any Cause—New Reduction Method.

Most headaches and pains yield instantly to the new Reduction Method—Dr. Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure. The cause for these pains is congestion—a rushing of blood to the nerve centers—which distends the vessels, causing the burning pain. Swollen and enlarged blood vessels and capillaries exert an irritating pressure on the myriads of nerve branches and fibers. Then there is a pain and finally that excruciating, senseless ache. This new Reduction Method dispels the blood, reduces the congestion, and relieves the pain. It is the only method that relieves the pain in twenty minutes. It is the only method that relieves the pain in twenty minutes. It is the only method that relieves the pain in twenty minutes.
